DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 17 is objected to because of the following informalities: In line 2, no antecedent basis could be found for "said at least one side pocket mandrel".

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 33 depends from canceled claim 24.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 16-19 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 of copending Application No. 10/676134. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims are substantially identical except for the instant claims, in the preamble, calls for gas lifted fluid extraction". While this is intended use, the claims of 10/676134 call for a side pocket mandrel. Gas lift wells are the most common use of a side pocket mandrel and it would have been considered obvious to use the method of 10/676134 for gas lift fluid extraction.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,9-11,14-19 and 26-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Reistle, III et al 3,653,435.

Reistle discloses a well completion apparatus and method of completing. A completion assembly 21,22 is disposed within a well annulus. Sliding sleeve valves are provided in the assembly that have flow ports that can be moved between open and closed positions that provide or block communication between the flowbore and the annulus. As shown in figure 13, gas lift valves are placed in side pocket mandrels. As to claim 2, a wiper plug (not shown) seats in shoe 28. As to claim 9, the nose portion of the plug lands in the shoe 28. As to claim 10, gas lift valves 100 are provided. As to claim 11, a wiper plug is used to clean out the cement. As to claims 14 and 15, shoe 28 is a track and a landing profile for receiving the wiper plug. As to claim 16, cement is displaced through the flowbore 21 and the cement is perforated to allow the well fluid to enter the completion assembly. As to claim 17, cement is displaced down pipe 21 past the side pockets. As to claims 18 and 19, pressurized working fluid behind the plug displaces the plug and also cleans out cement. As to claims 26 and 27, pressurized gas is admitted through the side pocket mandrels to the gas lift valves 100. As to claims 28 and 29, the wiper plug closes off the flow and then after the plug has displaced the cement, the assembly is opened to flow and gas lift is used to aid in production.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-8,12,13,31 and 32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
